

US-Asia Institute Szymanski Rule of Law Program

16th Annual Program in Washington D.C.

TRAVEL AND FEES: Travel restrictions permitting, the program will take place in Washington D.C. We arrange and cover lodging, local travel, and some meals in the United States. Program participants stay in the Capitol Hill Hotel, in close walking distance from the U.S. Capitol, Library of Congress, Supreme Court, and House and Senate Office Buildings. If Covid-19 restrictions do not permit travel to the US, the meetings will take place over Zoom and WebEx, and will expand to include offices throughout the United States.

SCHEDULE: Fellows should arrive in Washington D.C. and check into their hotel by Sunday, June 25th, 2023 and depart after the program ends on Friday, July 21st, 2023.

ELIGIBILITY: Each cohort will be comprised of up to six Chinese law students from premier Chinese law schools. In order to participate in the program, you must:

- Be a Chinese citizen
- Be currently pursuing a law degree at a Chinese university
- Have an interest in American law, government, and/or US-China relations
- Have demonstrated fluency in English and a desire to use it in conversations with top U.S. leaders

APPLICATION: Apply by March 1, 2023 by sending your Résumé (CV) and a Statement of Interest (~300-500 words, max 1 page) to Nate Conrad at nate.conrad@usasiainstitute.org. Finalists will be contacted for a follow-up interview over WeChat/Skype.

CONTACT: For more information, please visit <https://www.usasiainstitute.org/ruleoflaw/usprogram> or contact nate.conrad@usasiainstitute.org. The program is also underwritten by the China-United States Exchange Foundation (www.cusef.org.hk).

